WILKESBARRE'S DIRE CALAMITY.

DEVASTATION OF THE CYCLONE.

A Wild Scene of Dessolation-Details of the Terrible Destruction Wrought in the City-No Less Than 2,000 Buildings Wrecked and Property Loss Estimated at Fully $1,000,000.

WILKESAARRE, Pa., August 20.— As a consequence of the terrible devas-tation and complete consternation that followed the cyclone which traveled through this city late yesterday after-noon, and the fact that darkness so quickly enveloped the valley, it was impossible to gather much intelligence as to the extent of damage and loss of life. As time goes on, the severity of the cyclone is more and more demonstrated, and it is singular that so comparativele few lives were lost. Im-mense buildings containing many people were unroofed and in many cases almost destroyed in the twinkling of an eye, and this at an hour when the people were about the streets amid fly-ing timber and debris of every character. The city in its most frequented part around the depot, presents its worst appearance and when it is reworst appearance and when it is remembered that passenger and freight cars were lifted from the tracks upon which they stood, and laid on their sides, while other cars were rushed along the track by the force of the cyclone's swirl, a small conception of its terrific velocity may be obtained.
The cyclone made its appearance so suddenly and was accompanied by suddenly and was accompanied by such portentious skies that even the STOUTEST WERE APPALLED. Especially so when at a high altitude were seen tin roofs, timber and all sorts of movable things, and the skies were a thick black mass, such as is shown at the time of an immense conflagra-

About 81 o'clock a huge black cloud, which had been gathered southwest of town in the direction of Plymouth, began to discharge tremenduous thunder-bolts. The lightning played with remarkable frequency, and streams of the electric fire poured from mid-heaven. That a heavy down-pour of rain was imminent was readily to be seen, and all sought sheiter. Later an unusual center of activity was noticeable in the relative of Lee Park. vicinity of Lee Park. The lower clouds began scudding in great circles at tre-menduous speed. Their vortex seem-ed close in the vicinity, but to the north of the cutlery works at South Wilkesbarre a sudden gust of wind sprang up, and in a moment had in-creased to a roar. The Vulcan Iron works, James Norris' foundry and the Keystone flour mill felt the first shock, the wind dashing the heavy materials about like straws. The storm swept on up Main street.

RAZING THE BUILDINGS on the west side of that thoroughfare. Everything was touched with a heavy hand. The beautiful shade trees were east into the street. Then it struck the handsome residences, stores, green-houses, potery works, etc., along Main street as far as Academy street. The western edge of the storm extended to the lower end of Franklin street and Dana place. Brick dwellings were un-roofed and the upper stories torn away, and some were leveled to the ground, South Main and Franklin streets were South Main and Franklin streets were completely blocked with fallen trees, roofs, timber and wire. Veering eastward, the storm swept out Boss and ward, the storm swept out Boss and other crops just housed. In Ohio countries the storm was a second of the crops just housed. In Ohio countries the storm was a second of the crops just house and barn ton street, extending as far east on Ross as the Hazard wire rope works.

It followed Washington street, wrecking St. Mary's church, then jumped to the Lehigh Valley depot, the Jersey Central depot, Stegmeier's brewery and swept along the railroad to Five Points. Here it turned eastward again, swept up Pearl street, out by Baltimore shaft No. 2, then dashed up the mountain and spent itself in the woods.

A FRIGHTFUL SCENE.

The scene at the Hazard wire rope works was terrible. The immense buildings was badly injured and in the debris lay the dead and injured, the latter helpless until assistance came to them. Here one of the worst phases of the cyclone's work could be realized the ponderous machinery being mixed with brick, mortar and general debris in a confused mass. The number of seriously injured men at these works exceeded twelve, and there were two killed.

Terrible was the scythe sweep of the eyclone at Five Points, a portion of this city. Mothers with their children in their arms cried to heaven for heip. Their frail homes were falling about them, the air outside was filled with falling buildings and debris of all sorts. They knew not which way to turn, and in their extremity called to heaven for help. Near the Delaware & Hudson railroad, on Scott street, were houses occupied by the families of James Mc-Ginty and James Henegan. All the members of these two families were at

was going on, powerless to do anything for their safety. Both houses were leveled to the ground and the inmates were held in the ruins by the debris. Mrs. Eliza Jane McGinty, aged about 28 years, and the babe she held to her breast were crushed to death. John breast were crushed to death. John McGinty, aged 13, was crushed to death. Mary Jane McGinty, a little daughter, was so severely burt and crushed that but little hope is entertained of her recovery. The family of James Henegan could not be found in the ruins of their home and fears are the ruins of their nome and lears are entertained that they all perished.

The Barber Ashfelt company works are blown down; S. L. Brown & Co.'s mammoth business block on Market street, containing ten wholesale stores, is among the ruins, and the Murray coal works were partially destroyed with heavy loss. The mammoth Hollenback breaker is a complete wreck, the roof being blown off and the windows all blown in; the structure is comdows all blown in; the structure is completely disjointed and will have to be entirely rebuilt. The front of the engine house was also blown in. The fans were stopped while 27 men were at work in the Hillman vein, but luckily they were able to start them right away, and although the hoisting machinery was damaged the work of conveying the men to the for was accomchinery was damaged the work of conveying the men to the top was accomplished without accident. It was a very narrow escape. Four men standing on the beams were able to guide the rope of the drum and it took several hours to hoist them from the Hillman to the Baltimore vein. They were then able to walk up to the surface in

FORCE OF THE STORM.

As showing the force of the storm, the large trestlework helddown by the rope was blown from under it and carrope was blown from under it and carried away. Bloss & White's mining drill work's on Scott street are destroyed, as is also the house adjoining it. The houses between the Valley tracks on the same street are gone. Bright's oil warehouse, oil barrels and all, are blown away. Up Bowman, Scott and Kinger streets all the houses at the lower ends thereof are either blown down or severely damaged. The cyclone went up Pearl street to the Baltimore No. 2 new breaker, which is damaged to the extent of thousands of dollars. The boiler house and barn are lars. The boiler house and barn are blown over. Frank Fulrod, who was at work there, was so seriously injured that death is looked for at any moment. Three hundred girls were at work in Calland's underwear factory on South Washington street.

ALL WERE PANIC STRICKEN.

When the storm came Mr. Calland when the storm came Mr. Calland rushed among them and endeavored to calm and keep them together but four or five rushed out and were slightly injured. Mr. Calland could not succeed in quieting those who remained in the building. They rushed about in all directions. A large number fainted and several were thrown into convulsions. The girls were gardually calmed when the storm subsided and all reached their homes except those who were sick with hysterics and they were taken home in carriages later. The roof of the house was blown off and all the glass in front was broken.

The Ninth Regiment is on duty in answer to a proclamation by the may-or. The soldiers are assisting the police in maintaining order, and are everywhere eager to assist and do what is asked. Unemployed are pressed into service to raise the embargo laid upon very many of the streets by fallen tim-ber, debris and telegraph poles. Many owners of buildings have already set about the reconstruction of the injured portions of their property.

A careful estimate places the number of buildings demolished and partially destroyed at nearly 400, and some esti mate that it will exceed this figure. The loss will probably reach

NEARLY IF NOT QUITE ONE MILLION, although in the present chaos no possible means of making a close estimate exists. At the city hospital several victims are cared for. Some of them cannot possibly survive.

The city during the night was enveloped in darkness, owing to all the ser-vices from the electric light station be-ing cut off. The track of the storm embraced the company's net work of wires and also caused the electric street railways to suspend operations completely, and until the trees, telephone and telegraph poles and debris is removed from the tracks they cannot resume.

To-day Wilkesbarre, the metropolis of the coal regions, stands amazed, dismayed at the calamity which descended upon her in so short a space of time.

Thousand of people are scrambling over and about the scene of the wreck neglecting all business.

THE STORM IN BERKS.

READING, Pa., Aug. 20.—Reports from different sections of the country received to-day show that last night's storm unroofed a dozen barns, and that storm unroofed a dozen barns, and that the total damage will amount to $20,000 in Berks county. In Spring township, this couty, the body of Wm. A Stein-meil, a farmer who was buried under-neath the debris of his wrecked barn, was recovered shortly before noon to-day. His neck was broken. He was buried underneath tons of hay and ty, Jame Schaeffer's house and barn were demolished. He and his family escaped uninjured.

FURTHER DESTRUCTION.

Susquenanna, Pa., Aug. 20.—A heavy wind storm unroofed houses and barns and filled the roads with timbers and debris at Brushville, three miles some triangle at but one gastronomic from here, at 6 o'clock last evening. A round. The bakers of the city are alive from here, at 6 o'clock last evening. A house occupied by Luther Hall and family was partially blown down and one of Mr. Hall's sons was killed and another fatally injured.

A Republican Estimate of Harrison.

"Gath," the republican correspon dent of the Cincinnati Enquirer, writes as follows:

I have made mention of President Harrison and his son: I fear that we have hardly ever had a president whose personality obtained so little favor as that of Harrison. One would suppose among the Republicans of Boston, for example, to hear him highly spoken of but, as one of the leading editors of the city, a Republican, said to me: "He has no friends here; the whole party is down on him. What for? Well, there is an idea that he is a selfish, unsympathetic, sordid minded kind of man, who re fers almost everything to himself, and has a kind of hypocritical, selfish religion which he uses to confirm him in his hatred and stinginess. He has no more idea, from all that we hear, of how to do a chivalrous thing and present something to somebody in a princely way than if he had never read a book upon the hero."

"What are these parties, anyway," said I, "in our day but timid congregations of office-seekers, afraid to put up their No. 1 man, or even their No. 2 man?

"Quite right; and that is what Harrison is. He belongs to third class. He is not even at the tail of the second-class lawyers and public men. He is a good third-class man; that is about the universal rank he is given in Boston. The family outfit is very little regarded in this city. From all that we can hear Harrison went in pursuit of the Presidency as he would solicit office of Reporter of the Supreme Court of Indiana. He sent men out to New York and other States to talk him up and get him nominated that he might draw the salary. His son has conferred no the salary. His son has conterred no credit upon him by accepting the first office which came to him to go to New York City and be a sort of crier before a sort of slop-shop to pull people in from the street and make them buy."

A Remarkable Letter.

A Remarkable Letter.

The following letter from Mr. W. A. Thompson, of Columbus. Wis., is peculiarly interesting: "My wife," says he, "has been treated for her head, stomach and nervous prostration by three doctors in New York, two in Chicago, one in Philadelphia, one in Cincinnati, and at the large institute in Buffalo for 16 months. They all falled. But one bottle of Dr. Miles' Restorative Nervine helped her wonderfully." This should be used in all headaches, backaches, changes of life, nervous disturbances, fits, rheumatism, etc. Ask at I. Leist's drug store for a free trial bottle and Dr. Miles' new book on the Nerves and Heart.

of wheat made this season by Mr. J. Fremont Hickman, agriculturist of the Ohlo Agricultural Experiment Station, the principal test was made upon a piece of very uniform river bottom land, on which a clover sod was turned under to form a seed bed for the crop. In order to ascertain the behavior of certain varieties under different conditions, a number of duplicate plots were sown, some of them on another strip of river bottom on which had grown a dition should be provided and such care crop of beets in 1888, dressed partly given as will insure excellent health and with barnyard and partly with mineral manures, followed by oats in 1889, un-manured, and some on the field of the second bottom where most of the wheat experiments of the station have hitherto been conducted, and which has now borne nine successive crops of wheat, with two or three dressings of barning the winter months. I have exeryard manure during this time, the last cised the right of changing my mind on that subject since I feft the farm. than the clover sod, as a strip of low, dark soil runs through it, across the plots, on which the wheat of all varieties lodged more or less, whereas there was little or no lodging on the clover sod. It appears, therefore, that the large quantity of mineral matter re-moved by the beets has not seriously impoverished the soil for the wheat

The effect of continual cropping, however, is very marked. This is es-pecially brought out by another comparison, in which velvet chaff has been grown two successive seasons without nanure, following clover, on a soil similar to the second bottom described, and in which the yield this season was 31,3 bushels.

So far as may be judged from a single experiment the above varieties endure poverty in the following order:

MOUNTAINS OF PIE.

G. A. R. Consumption of the New England Delicacy.

The Boston Record of last week says: The Grand Army boys will without doubt be feted to their heart's content, and a New England feast is incomplete without pie.

Two hundred thousand visitors will op down upon us next week, and all will eat pie —no, not all but let us say 150.000 are sure to test its dainty merits. That means at the least estimate 100,000 pies a day, for while some will revel in their delights at every meal, more will rest content with a toothto their opportunity. They feel that the credit of the city and their own future well-being are at stake. Two centuries and a half of an unbroken of pie-eaters looks down upon them. Countiess apples and blue berries and squashes and rhubarb, and all the sav-ory elements that go to make up a pie's ensemble are to-day undergoing the preliminary stages of preparation for the coming digestive onslaught. The figures are amazing. Four apples make a pie. About a pound of other ingredients, as flour, sugar, lard, spices and elbow grease complete the structure. A good 75 per cent. of all the pies consumed will be apple pies, and right on them rests the goodly spectacle in its full sublimity. For 75,000 pies a day, or 450,000 pies for the week, 4500 berrels of apple are required.

barrels of apples are required.

All the boys in Boston could hardly steal the apples in one day, even if the old man was away at camp-meeting and the dog was dead. A barrel of flour furnishes crust enough for 300 pies. Of flour alone 1500 barrels are repies. Of flour alone 1500 barrels are required. A day's product of one of our largest refineries will go to sweeten up the vast aggregation. This on the apple pies alone. There is another way to look at it. Pies are about a foot in diameter. Every one knows that this is a little less than three quarters of a square foot. The next obvious step in the figuring leads to 353,250 square feet. Nearly 600 feet square, or about one-third again as large as either of the ball grounds—all carpeted with pie.

The New Discovery.

If you have ever tried it, you are one of its staunch friends, beyou are one of its staunch friends, be-cause the wonderful thing about it is, that when once given a trial, Dr. King's New Discovery ever after holds a place in the house. If you have never used it and should be afflicted with a cough, cold or any threat lung or sheet them. cold or any throat, lung or chest thou ble, secure a bottle at once and give it a fair trial. NearSomerset, in Perry county, Ohio, is an ancient ruin, whose walls, inclosing forty acres, were built of undressed stone, now lying in confusion. They have been estimated sufficient to build a wall 7 feet high and 6 feet broad around the whole forty acres inclosure. One gateway between the two large rocks opened into the country and was defended by a huge bowlder. The inclosure contained a large stone mound. No skeletons have been found, and the inclosure was certainly used for other purposes than habitation or sacrifice.

Card of Thanks.

Bill Nye is dealing some in etiquette these warm days and among other things talks about "cards of thanks." He gives the following as a sample:

I desire to thank the friends and neighbors most heartily in this manner for their united aid and co-operation during the illness and death of my recent husband, who escaped from me by the hand of death on Friday last while we were eating breakfast. To the friends, both one and all, who thus contributed so willingly toward making the last moments and funeral of my the last moments and funeral of my husband a howling success, I desire to be remembered most kindly, hoping that these lines may find them enjoying the same blessing. I bow to the cruel stroke. I also have a good milch cow and roan gelding horse rising of eight years old, which I will sell cheap on the premises. God moves in a mysterious way his wonders to perform. He plants his footsteps in the sea and rides upon his footsteps in the sea and rides upon the storm. Also a black and white shote very low. Yours truly,
